THE OLD CROSS, WINCHESTER. The City Cross in High Street, a fine Gothic example of its kind, is a light and elegant structure of three stages, erected in the early part of the 15th century, by the Fraternity of the Holy Cross. It is 43 feet high, the upper stage consisting of four open arches, supported by pannelled buttresses continued upwards into slender pinnacles united by open tracery, the whole surmounted by a Cross on a slender shaft.
